

Department of Curriculum and Pedagogy
Aug 10, 2022

The Department of Curriculum and Pedagogy has a part-time Sessional Instructor appointment available for Winter Term 1. We are accepting applications for the following course with 1 sections in W1, 2022.

Research in the Teaching and Learning of the Sciences
EDCP 559 section 301 (seminar) in-person

Credits: 3 Graded

Location: Vancouver

Winter Term 1 2022 - (September 6, 2022 to Dec 7, 2022) In-person delivery

This course introduces graduate students to key concepts in science education and explores theoretical foundations and pedagogical approaches to teaching and learning science. An in-depth and broad range of knowledge in theory and research in science education is required to teach this course. The applicant will have experience teaching graduate courses in science education and teacher education; experience teaching education research methods with expertise in both quantitative and qualitative research design is an asset.

All applicants must hold a PhD in Science Education with a record of professional practice in science education, publications in science/STEM/environmental education, experience organizing and presenting at science education conferences, and extensive experience teaching graduate-level courses in science education in Canada and/or internationally with a focus on teacher education.

Active participation in Science Education Networks and Associations, as well as indicators of influence in the area of STEM, science education, and teacher education in Canada are desirable. All qualified candidates are encouraged to apply; however, Canadians and permanent residents will be given priority.

This course will be delivered in person; however, recent relevant experience teaching in both online/virtual and in person settings is required for this position. The applicant must be prepared to teach an online and hybrid version of this course if required.

Equity and diversity are essential to academic excellence. An open and diverse community fosters the inclusion of voices that have been underrepresented or discouraged. We encourage applications from members of groups that have been marginalized on any grounds enumerated under the B.C. Human Rights Code, including sex, sexual orientation, gender identity or expression, racialization, disability, political belief, religion, marital or family status, age, and/or status as a First Nation, Metis, Inuit, or Indigenous person.

Letters of application along with a current resume or CV are submitted to

Dr. Sandra Scott
University of British Columbia or by email at sandra.scott@ubc.ca

Faculty of Education
Department of Curriculum and Pedagogy
2125 Main Mall
Vancouver, BC V6T 1Z4

Deadline is August 31, 2022.

Due to the number of applications we receive, we are unable to confirm the receipt of submissions over the phone or through the mail, nor can we provide the status of applicants except to those who are selected for an interview.

Also, due to scheduling and workload changes and plans within the Department, deadlines for applications may change and new job postings may be uploaded. We will try to indicate these changes but it is the responsibility of potential applicants to check the website periodically for changes.