Department of Curriculum & Pedagogy | Community, Vision, Distinction

The Department of Curriculum & Pedagogy (EDCP) at UBC is committed to advancing research into learning and teaching in a variety of contexts and across the lifespan. In addition to addressing many of the curriculum areas represented in public education, we also focus on transdisciplinary areas of scholarly inquiry such as curriculum theory, design and evaluation, teacher education, digital media and learning technologies, curriculum and pedagogy in higher education, arts-based research, and learning and teaching in informal educational settings. We have internationally renowned programs and scholars in the Department of Curriculum & Pedagogy.

We offer a number of graduate programs at the M.Ed., M.A. and Ph.D. levels, some of which are structured as research-themed cohorts both on and off campus. As well, we offer a variety of Curriculum and Pedagogy Summer Institutes for practicing teachers where 3 to 6 credits of coursework can be completed in a 1- or 2-week research-based experience in a number of curriculum areas - Art Education, Mathematics Education, Music Education, Physical Education, and Technology Studies. To get a sense of the range and variety of experiences we offer, please check out both the Graduate Programs section of our website, and also the Summer Institute and cohort-based graduate programs we offer through our Faculty's Office of Professional Development & Community Engagement. In addition to our various graduate program offerings, we offer a broad range of curriculum and pedagogy courses in the Faculty's Teacher Education Program.

We welcome you to join our community!
