

Department of Curriculum and Pedagogy
March 16, 2023

The Department of Curriculum and Pedagogy has opportunity for a part-time Sessional Lecturer. We are accepting applications for the following course:

Theorizing Pedagogy

This graduate course focuses on theorizing pedagogy in the context of education outdoors for mathematics teaching and learning. The course explores theories of teaching and learning, inquiry and play in outdoor and garden classrooms and through place and land-based mathematics education.

EDCP 542 (Seminar)

Location: online

Summer Term 1 (June 12, 2022 to July 28, 2023)

Mode of Delivery: online

Requires In-Person Attendance: No

Applicants must have a recognized doctoral degree with relevant teaching and academic expertise for this graduate course. Applicants need to have:

- experience in the K–12 and post-secondary education systems with particular concentrated experience in the mathematics education in outdoor settings
- experience with mathematics education research, mathematics teacher education research, and research in education outdoors

Duties include teaching online, holding regular Zoom meetings with students individually and collectively as needed, supporting students to prepare assignments, providing feedback on students' projects and progress, and planning with the EDCP co-ordinator of the Math Education online M.Ed cohort Connecting, Math Community and Culture.

Equity and diversity are essential to academic excellence. An open and diverse community fosters the inclusion of voices that have been underrepresented or discouraged. We encourage applications from members of groups that have been marginalized on any grounds enumerated under the B.C. Human Rights Code, including sex, sexual orientation, gender identity or expression, racialization, disability, political belief, religion, marital or family status, age, and/or status as a First Nation, Metis, Inuit, or Indigenous person.

All qualified candidates are encouraged to apply; however Canadians and permanent residents will be given priority.

Letters of application along with a current resume or CV are submitted to
