

Department of Curriculum and Pedagogy
January 10, 2024

The Department of Curriculum and Pedagogy has opportunity for a part-time Sessional Lecturer. We are accepting applications for the following course:

Education Action Research

This graduate course focuses on education action research as an approach to researching teaching and learning mathematics in school and outdoor contexts and across grade levels. The course offers both theoretical study of researching teaching particularly as community-focused and “teacher-as-researcher” approaches as well as strategies to design, evaluate, and conduct field research in educational settings.

EDCP 512A (Seminar)

Location: online

Summer Term 1 (April 1, 2024 to June 8, 2024)

Mode of Delivery: online

Requires In-Person Attendance: No

Applicants must have a recognized doctoral degree with relevant teaching and academic expertise for this graduate course. Applicants need to have:

- experience in the K–12 and post-secondary education systems with particular concentrated experience in teaching and/or conducting inquiry-based teacher research, community-based research, and/or teacher research.
- experience with mathematics education research, mathematics teacher education research, and research methodologies.

Duties include teaching online, holding regular Zoom meetings with students individually and collectively as needed, supporting students to prepare assignments, providing feedback on students’ projects and progress, and planning with the EDCP co-ordinator of the Math Education online M.Ed cohort Connecting, Math Community and Culture.

Equity and diversity are essential to academic excellence. An open and diverse community fosters the inclusion of voices that have been underrepresented or discouraged. We encourage applications from members of groups that have been marginalized on any grounds enumerated under the B.C. Human Rights Code, including sex, sexual orientation, gender identity or expression, racialization, disability, political belief, religion, marital or family status, age, and/or status as a First Nation, Metis, Inuit, or Indigenous person.

All qualified candidates are encouraged to apply; however Canadians and permanent residents will be given priority.

Letters of application along with a current resume or CV are submitted to
